ZSE Industrials below 100pts mark as bears rule the roost...

The ZSE Industrial Index slipped below the 100pts mark in Tuesday trades after shedding 0.59% to 99.80pts as the bear market continues to dominate. Losses in market heavies drove the benchmark beyond the psychological 100pts mark as sustained selloffs with no respite took its toll. Banking group Barclays headlined the retreat after succumbing 7.89% to $0.0350 while weeks of selling pressure in retail group OKZIM culminated in the group shedding 6.6% to $0.0350. FMCG conglomerate Innscor saw its glitter dim further as it lost 2.56% and closed exchanging hands at $0.1900. Completing the day's shakers was beverages giant Delta, that came off 0.57% and closed at $0.5200. Old Mutual emerged the sole gainer for the day after rising by a marginal 0.13% to $1.8024, though its loss mitigation efforts proved fruitless against the bearish tide.

Activity aggregates reflected a mixed outturn was volumes of the day ballooned 79% to circa 12.5m shares while the value of trades fell 64.75% to $0.842m. OKZIM and Pearl were the top drivers of the volumes accounting for a combined 91.3% of the total shares traded, with the other notable volume being exchanged in Delta. Similarly the trio dominated the value contributors with Delta leading at a 53.4% contribution while OKZIM and Pearl followed having claimed 24.54% and 14.37% of the same. The market registered a net funds outflow position as purchases by foreigners amounted to $0.121m while portfolio disposals stood at $0.802m.
